

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Attribute information of a film and apparatus information of an image recording apparatus are converted 5 into visible information, which is recorded on the film in a predetermined location thereon. If the film has a central area serving as an image recording area where a visible image is recorded, then the visible information is recorded in an upper area, for example, in a region around 10 the image recording area. The visible information is recorded in a display pattern that can easily be recognized by the user.